RSSS Guest Lecture Series - SPRING 2022

Friday
April 22
1:00 PM

Location:
Learning Services
Building, Room 246

For more information
CONTACT:

Dr. Liudmila Klimanova
klimanova@arizona.edu

What Corpora Can Do for Russian Language Studies

The purpose of this presentation is to demonstrate how corpora contribute to the study of the Russian language. The Russian National Corpus (NKRJa) and its sub-corpora, the Russian Learner Corpus, Google Ngram, and other corpora contain valuable data that were not available until the 21st century. Currently, the study of the Russian language cannot be carried out without the use of corpora. We will see in this presentation how the corpus enriches research on Russian lexicology, syntax, morphology, and also on the acquisition of Russian as a foreign language. Special attention will be paid to how the results of these studies can be used by teachers of Russian.

Irina KOR CHAHINE

Visiting Scholar (2021-22)

Dr. Irina Kor Chahine is a Professor of Russian linguistics at the University Cote d'Azur-CNRS, Nice, France. She has published articles in the field of Russian semantics, lexicology, and discourse studies, and recently she has been working on learner corpora and corpus-based qualitative analysis.